

Faculty Biography

Brigid M. Russell
Associate Director, Federal Relations
The Joint Commission

Brigid is responsible for developing strategic opportunities for The Joint Commission involving the public and private sectors. She analyzes the effects of legislation, regulations, and guidances on The Joint Commission and healthcare entities. To accomplish this, Brigid maintains relationships with government agencies, including the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), legislative offices, purchasers of healthcare, and national policy organizations on healthcare. Brigid also responds to congressional inquiries.

Prior to The Joint Commission, Brigid worked within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services at the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ) and CMS's Center for Consumer Information and Insurance Oversight.

Education: B.A., Georgetown University; M.H.A., University of Minnesota.
