

NEW! Behavioral Health Care Breakfast Briefings Webinar Series

Our new 11-part Behavioral Health Care Breakfast Briefings webinar series, focused on behavioral health care standards, is a new opportunity to gain education while not having to travel to a live event. We are pleased to offer great content to the behavioral health care community that follows in the footsteps of our other successful breakfast briefing series.

Take advantage by joining your peers in signing up to hear the latest surrounding BHC standards and survey process while earning continuing education credits as well. Content includes a review of standards, applicable challenging standards, practical application tips, and additional learning references. This series is a great way to engage your staff, bring a team in for an optimal learning experience, and hear from a balance of Joint Commission Surveyors, Joint Commission Resources experts, and Joint Commission subject matter experts including the Standards Interpretation Group (SIG). Faculty will provide you with lessons learned from surveying and best practices from the field, in addition to taking your live questions at the end of the presentation, and even after (via our posted Q&A opportunity).
